

This morning was characterized by some demonstrations on the snow. First of all the Italian patrollers showed how to use the rescuing material provided by Kong, then the people from the other nations tried to use the ropes and all the devices that are part of the equipment. They worked on extreme situations in order to improve the rescuing technique. A comparison between the people from different countries allowed them to learn some new details that are very useful in difficult situations.

Moreover some people tried to use specific devices that help the patrollers to save who is lost under an avalanche.

Today was the day of the first trip. The programme included the visit of Bergamo and San Pellegrino Terme. The beauty and the magical atmosphere of the city touched everyone. With its monuments, its churches and its history, Bergamo has conquered everyone's hearts. Città Alta was the most exciting location that they visited. They also visited Accademia Carrara and they experienced the journey through the painting history. Moreover they enjoyed the wonderful Terme of San Pellegrino where they had a refreshing aperitif at the SPA and some relaxing time.
